JOURNAL OF HEALTH AND ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

About the Journal

Journal of Health and Environmental Studies (JHES) is an international peer-reviewed journal published by the Environment and Health Research Group (EHRG), University of Maiduguri. JHES is published two times a year. The journal is open for the academic world and research institutes, academic and professional libraries, graduate students and PhD candidates, academic and non-academic researchers and research teams. Our goal is to provide original, relevant, and timely information from a diversity of sources with immense integrity for the need of local and international scholars. Should your research help us achieve our goal, we shall be glad to have your manuscript. All manuscripts are subject to a double blind review by the editorial board and other scholars who are noted experts in the appropriate subject area. Manuscripts are welcomed throughout the year but treated as first come, first served. We also welcome the publication of special issues and conference proceedings.

Scope, Focus and Objectives

JHES approaches the thematic focus of health and environmental studies from interdisciplinary perspectives. Our journal is interested to promote multidisciplinary research in the fields of health and environmental research. The journal's aim is to promote the exchange of scientific ideas and to bring together health researchers, scientists, technologists, environmentalists, academics and policy-makers. JHES provides an international opportunity for original research studies that seeks to promote original theoretical and empirical Works including review papers in all spheres of health and environmental studies that advance and enhance the understanding of theory and practice. Specifically, the journal will provide the forum:

- For the dissemination of information and discussions on health and environmental issues that result from the findings of research.
- That would encourage, coordinate, as well as facilitate the publication of findings from original research endeavors.
- JHES would act as a public voice for researchers and scholars in the field of health and environmental studies alike; offering contributors the arena that enables unrestraining responses.

Manuscript Review Process

All articles will be submitted to referees. The consulting editors/referees will have documented expertise in the area the article addresses. When reviews are received, an editorial decision will be reached to either not accept the article, accept the article without revision, accept the article with revision not requiring reconsideration by referee, accept the article with revision requiring reconsideration by referee or accept as short report. The decision of Editorial Board is final.
